

News Bite

Cancer Research visit

June 2012

Cancer research in the Hunter is committed to increasing and encouraging collaboration between academic, research and clinical staff to facilitate the development of an integrated approach by fostering the translation of cancer research discoveries into improved patient outcomes.

Dr Mary Haines, the Director Strategic Research Investment, Cancer Institute NSW, recently visited Calvary Mater Newcastle.

During her visit she met with Hunter cancer researchers and clinicians to give a presentation of the Cancer Institute NSW Research Strategies, incorporating the Translational Research Program and the Clinical Trial Staff Grants.

Key Hunter Cancer researchers who attended the meeting included Tony Proietto (Director Area Cancer Services), Michael Nilsson (Director HMRI), Steve Ackland (Director Hunter Cancer Research Alliance) as well as over 30 other hunter researchers and clinicians.

-ENDS-

Healing Hospitality
Respect Stewardshi